THERE'S as much difference in shoes as in anything else. Looks count for something; so do good workmanship and good materials.

You're always the judge of the shoes you buy; you know better after they are worn out than when you buy as to whether they're good shoes—unless you buy Selz shoes.

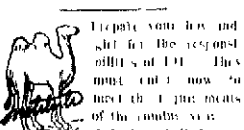

When you buy a pair of shoes bearing the name Selz you get a guarantee of your satisfaction—that's what you want, satisfaction; and if you want to know WHEN YOU BUY, buy Selz shoes. Then be the judge.

The secret of the guarantee is that the shoe don't need it. The maker couldn't guarantee the wearer's satisfaction if they did.

We sell Selz shoes, because among other things the maker guarantees us satisfied customers, that ought to be one reason for your wearing Selz shoes. Other reasons are that you'll find the latest models in this line and that they are better-than-usual fitters. They are made on scientific-ly designed models; the shape of your foot is the primary feature of every Selz shoe store.

BURIAL RITES IN CHINA.

The More the Dignity the Greater the Honors to the Dead

The many curious customs of the Chinese have been a constant source of wonder and amusement to the American tourist in China. By far the oddest but most impressive of these customs is the burial rite for the dead. Chinese hold the dead in such esteem and show such honor to their ancestors by leaving their graves and candles daily. They also have their relatives who have died in years before.

As soon as a Chinese dies his relatives entomb him in a tomb. The tomb is built in a hillside and is built in a way that the dead can see the living. The tomb is built in a hillside and is built in a way that the dead can see the living. The tomb is built in a hillside and is built in a way that the dead can see the living.

The male members of the family are busy digging the grave while the women folk assisted by the professional mourners, do the wailing. The grave is half under and half above the ground and is enclosed by a crescent shaped wall about two feet high. Another thing to be prepared for the dead is a miniature house, which is provided with miniature furniture. This is to provide the deceased with all the comforts of a home in the region where he is going. An image of the deceased, together with drink, shoes and eatables and money is placed on the coffin the day of the funeral.

The more is not buried but is buried in the presence of the mourners. During the process the mourner and the most faithful of the family to drive out the evil spirit. The dead man is supposed to be possessed. When the funeral is over the mourning banners are taken home and used as ornaments on the bare whitewashed walls of the rooms.

The more the banners the greater the honor paid to the dead. The miniature house provides the mourners to the grave. Then follows the elaborate feast, dined with blue velvet with advice to be borne by the natives. The feast is supposed to be a feast of the white gods. THE MAN WHO FAILED.

He Couldn't Understand Why and Yet It Was Very Simple

To the president of a whole drug concern came a suggestion for a new business in a school of pharmacy. He had come on the latter end of a long business life and had made a fortune out of a sort of a school of pharmacy.

He had no idea of the hard luck man. He had no idea of the hard luck man. He had no idea of the hard luck man. He had no idea of the hard luck man.

He had no idea of the hard luck man. He had no idea of the hard luck man. He had no idea of the hard luck man. He had no idea of the hard luck man. He had no idea of the hard luck man.

On the face of the listener there came an expression of amusement, part impatience. "Do you mean to tell me you call that hard luck?" he asked. "I call that stupidity! For twenty years you've been tripping over your own shoestrings and each time you picked yourself up you hadn't sense enough to tie them. For twenty years you've played sucker to the brotherhood of druggists. You blazed a trail and said: 'Here, you fellows, is a good place for your shops. I grew up with this trade but you can come right in and take it from me. Everything is ready, and the deal is earned.' Why, a man like you has no excuse for being in business. You ought to be a professor or a church tennor."

"Two and two make four" said the reader in a philosophical way. "Sometimes," replied Colonel Stillwell of Kentucky. "And then again they make a pair of dice."—Washington Star

The Eye's Blind Spot

The blind spot in the eye is where the optic nerve comes through the retina about one-tenth of an inch nearer the nose than the center. To test it close your eyes with your thumbs outside and held against each other. Extend your arms. Shut your left eye and look fixedly with your right eye at your left thumb. Separate your hands and when they are about six inches apart the right thumb will go out of focus. To spotify for its picture will fall in the blind spot.
